CHATTANOOGA, THE CITY THAT PAYS DIVIDENDS

Chattanooga, Tenn. April 8th, 1910.

Henry Russell Drowne, Secy
American Humismatic Society,
Audubon Park, New York City

Dear sir:

It gives us great pleasure to extend to your Society a cordial invitation to hold one of your meetings in the panoramic city of America. From a scenic and historic standpoint, Chattanooga is unrivalled in this country.

The Hotel Patten is a magnificent, modern, fireproof structure with all the comforts and luxuries to be found in the best hotels of America. Its rates are from $1.50 to $4.00 per day-European plan. We have also nine other hotels in the city with reasonable rates.

Kindly advise us the best method to proceed to secure some future meetings of your Society in this city.

Thanking you in advance for an early reply, we are

Very truly yours,

Chas. T. Alexander

Chairman of Conventions Committee.
